MELLOY IS LOW BIDDER ON ANTIOCH SEWER EXTENSION

Libertyville Contractor Offers to Do Job for $3,834.60

Joseph Melloy, Libertyville contractor, was low bidder on Antioch's proposed sewer extension project on Spafford and Hadden streets. It was disclosed Tuesday following the opening of bids by the Board of Local Improvements. Melloy's estimate for the job was $3,834.60, which was $73 lower than his nearest competitor, the Sautter company of Niles Center, and $161.74 under the bid of the Kapschull Co., of Deerfield. Hans Johnson, Antioch contractor, submitted a bid of $4,580.00.

The bids, together with the records of the three low bidders, were forwarded at once to the Chicago office of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works with the local board's recommendation that the low bid be accepted. The P.W.A. it is understood, has approved a federal grant whereby about $1,400 of the cost of the work will be paid by the government, and the remainder of the cost will be paid by special assessment bonds against property benefited and about $600 public benefit to be paid from the general fund of the village.

Property owners who object to the cost of the work still have ten days in which to file a protest according to Village Engineer James Amherst. With the approval of the P.W.A. the contract will be awarded and the contractor must execute a bond to the village as a guarantee that the work will be completed on time and in a satisfactory manner. The Melloy company, it was stated, would start the work within ten days after the awarding of the contract to them.

DAIRYMEN LOYAL TO ASSOCIATION, REPORT DISCLOSES

Lose Only 91 Out of 18,000 Members During Depression Year

A remarkable record of dairy farmer loyalty during depression times has been written upon the pages of Pure Milk Association history, following disclosures today that only 91 dairy farmers—five-tenths of one per cent of the approximate 18,000 members—have cancelled out of the Association this year.

Such a drop from the membership is unparalleled in the face of persistent attacks from individuals who wish to break down the bulwark of Chicago's dairy industry for their own personal gain; the cheating of the chiseling milk dealers who buy milk at "below market prices" from dairy farmers and then forget the pay them; the confusing AAA legal tangle which has kept market conditions fluctuating; and the reports of a misunderstanding metropolitan press, who only recently are making real attempts to report milk happenings intelligently.

The majority of these 91 members who cancelled out are confined to two plants where the members prefer to deal with the distributors, as in the good old days, rather than through the Pure Milk Association. Others have been shipping to independent dealers for some time.

During the course of the year, 839 herds have changed hands, and these non-shippers automatically are placed on the inactive list for cancellation; their memberships being taken over by those who bought the herds. This method of handling the inactive membership has kept the Pure Milk Association membership clear of dead wood, and makes it a live growing organization with every voting member an actual milk producer.

The small cancellation record is a clear indication that approximately 95 per cent of the dairy farmers in the Chicago Milk Shed have availed themselves of the opportunity to get a liberal education in the marketing of milk and the functioning of a co-operative organization.

YULETIDE PROGRAMS WILL BE HEARD IN ANTIOCH CHURCHES

Local Churches Arrange for Special Christmas Services

The approach of the Christmas season finds Antioch church people in the midst of preparations for the usual Yuletide programs of special music, pageants and services of worship. The first of the programs will be heard Sunday at various hours, and other services are to follow Christmas eve and Christmas. Talented vocalists will be heard in renditions of special Christmas music, and there will be programs, pageants and real Santa Clauses to bring joy to the hearts of the children.

Pageant at St. Ignatius. A Christmas pageant entitled "A Christmas Mystery Play" will form the principal part of the Yule program at St. Ignatius church Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Children of the church school are included in the cast.

Following the service in the church Santa Claus will visit the children in the parish hall.

The traditional midnight service will be held on Christmas eve at 11:30 o'clock. There will be Holy Communion, a Christmas Sermon and singing of Christmas carols by the choir. Miss Jean Tschopp will be a guest soloist at this service. The public is invited.

Five Masses at St. Peter's. There will be five masses at St. Peter's church on Christmas day, the first of which will be the "Mass of the Angels" to be sung at six o'clock by the children's choir. This will be followed by Low Masses at 7, 8 and 9 o'clock. The last mass, sung by the adult choir, will be at 10 o'clock.

A special Christmas sermon will be given by the pastor at the early services, and a priest of the Servite Order from Hillside will preach at the later Masses. The Servite Father will also assist in hearing Confessions on Christmas Eve.

As usual, a beautiful Christmas crib representing the infant Saviour and the Holy Family, the shepherds and interesting details connected with Christ's nativity, will be on display in the Church from Christmas day until the feast of Epiphany, January 6.

A children's party will be given by the Keynotes' Social Club for the members of the Catechism class at St. Peter's, and also for prospective members, on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 23. Entertainment will be provided for children and their parents.

Drama at Methodist Church. "Snowbound on Christmas Eve," a four part drama by May M. Brewster, will be presented by the Methodist Church School at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Twenty-one characters will have parts in the play. There will be special music.

A Christmas tree for the children and exchange of gifts will take place at the church school hour, 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning. The morning service of Christmas worship and sermon by the pastor will follow at 10:45. There will be special numbers by the choir.

December 28 will be church night when there will be a covered dish supper at six o'clock and a mid-holiday program following. This program will be in charge of the December division of the Ladies' Aid, with Mrs. Harry Radtke, chairman, and Mrs. Elmer Kufalk and Wilma Musch as the committee in charge of Christmas entertainment.

W. F. Ziegler leaves Friday night to spend Christmas with his brother and family, E. B. Ziegler of DuQuoin, Ill.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

LEGION POST'S NEW YEAR PARTY TO BE REAL EVENT

Unique Entertainment, Fine Music and Big Dinner Are Features

Novelty stunts and entertainment features never before seen in this locality are being planned by the Antioch American Legion Post for the New Year's eve party to be held Dec. 31 at Bruno Rowewsky's Pasadena Gardens, a mile north of Antioch.

The committee has announced that there will be dancing from 9:00 o'clock, dinner will be served at any time, and besides the usual New Year's novelties and noise-makers, there will be an indoor snowfall fight which the committee assures will be of a harmless nature, and many other entertaining surprises are in store for those who attend.

A feature will be the music of Monte Hilton and his band, three of whom have been connected with one of the famous orchestras.

The Legionnaires declare the event is not given for the purpose of making money, but is held for the community in appreciation of the splendid co-operation the local post has received from citizens. For that reason the admission fee has been set at 50 cents per person to help defray expenses. This one low price includes dinner, dancing and entertainment.

Former Resident Dies in Wisconsin; Is Buried Here

The body of Miss Ida D. Rogers who died at Lake Mills, Wis., December 8, was brought to Antioch for burial Dec. 11. Miss Rogers was born in Antioch 80 years ago.

The Lake Mills Leader printed the following regarding her death: "Miss Ida D. Rogers, a daughter of Allen and Julia Bradley Rogers, was born March 4, 1854, at Antioch, Ill. She is the last of four children of the family, passing to her reward on Dec. 8, 1934, at the age of 80 years, 9 months and 4 days. Among the immediate relatives she leaves to cherish her memory are three nieces and one nephew.

For the last 21 years she has made her home here in Lake Mills at the home of her niece, Mrs. E. L. Millett. She was a life long member of the Baptist church and an earnest Christian believer.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the E. L. Millett home, with burial at Antioch, Ill. The Rev. William A. Riggs of the Methodist Episcopal church officiated.

CORRECTION.

In the edition of the News of December 8, it was stated in a heading that the late Anthony Leable died at the Newport poor farm. This was a typographical error, as the statement should have been that Mr. Leable's demise occurred at his "Newport farm home."

TALENTED ARTISTS TO SING PRINCIPAL ROLES IN "MESSIAH"

Final arrangements have now been made for the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" on Thursday evening, December 27, at the Waukegan Township High School Gymnasium by the Lake County Festival Chorus under the direction of John D. Thomas. This magnificent chorus is composed of 200 voices from all sections of Lake county. The chorus will be supported by an orchestra of 35 local musicians, and further augmented by a large, two-manual, pedal bass organ.

Mr. Thomas and the Music Committee are very pleased to be able to present four talented young Chicago artists who will sing the major roles. After two trips to several schools of music in Chicago and after hearing many the voices the committee chose the following singers whose personalities and appearances are as pleasing as their voices. The soprano soloist is Miss Helen Bleckert who is the soloist at the First Congregational Church in Evanston and a member of the American Quartet. Miss Maurine Parzybok is the contralto soloist at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Chicago. She has appeared for two consecutive seasons as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. John Elliot, tenor, is at present engaged in radio work over a coast to coast network. John MacDonald is the bass soloist at the St. James Church in Chicago. All four of these singers are well known in Chicago musical circles and all have done radio work.

A quartet of local singers is to be featured in the brief, but lovely, number, "Since by Man Came Death, By Man Came Also the Resurrection of the Dead." This quartet is composed of Mrs. Jessie Edwards Conzelman, Miss Florence Farrar, Harold W. Shimmons, and Ira F. Lee.

Considerable interest has been shown in the disposition of the proceeds from this presentation of the oratorio. It is hoped that the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" at Christmas time by the Lake County Festival Chorus will become an annual event to which music lovers of the entire county will look forward. Whatever funds remain after all expenses have been paid will go into a fund which will be used next year for financing this project. The burden of financing this year's production has been assumed by the Waukegan Concert Chorus which is sponsoring the Lake County Festival Chorus.

Tickets for the performance on December 27 are now available from members of the chorus and various church choirs and other organizations which are helping with the ticket sale. General admission tickets may be exchanged for seats in the reserved section for a small additional charge. The tickets have been popularly priced, so that all who wish to do so may attend.

In Antioch tickets are available at Reeves' Drug Store.

Dan Williams, Harold Nelson and Dorothy Hughes will return from Bloomington where they are attending school, Friday. Dr. Roy Williams will go after them.

ROCKFORD MAN SAYS SALES TAX EXTENSION VOID

Representative LeRoy Green, veteran Rockford Republican house member, made a startling announcement recently when he revealed that one of the most glaring errors ever made by the Illinois general assembly was discovered when it was made known at Springfield that the legislature at its recent special session has unwittingly amended the unconstitutional 3 per cent sales tax law instead of the 2 per cent sales tax now in effect.

The mistake was made when the legislature met at Springfield on Nov. 19 in response to the call of Governor Henry Horner. The special session was called solely for the purpose of extending the 2 per cent sales tax indefinitely after next July, when the present sales tax law expires.

Adding to the seriousness of the situation was the announcement that the error was corrected in the senate and house journals by "some unknown party" following the special legislative session, and the amendment thus was made to the sales tax act passed in June 1933, which had been upheld by the courts. The act amended by the legislature was that of March, 1933, which became void when held unconstitutional by the supreme court.

Green Reveals Error. The error became public after a letter written this week by Rep. Green to the head of the legislative press bureau at Springfield was given to the news bureau by a Republican state committeeman.

In the letter, Green called attention to the seriousness of the mistake which the legislature had made.

"The amendment to the sales tax law is void and the sales tax stands (continued on page 7)

VILLAGE RECEIVES FINAL PAYMENT ON TOWER GRANT

Clerk Murrie Gets PWA Check for $835 in Final Settlement

A check for $835 received Saturday by Village Clerk Roy L. Murrie from the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works squares the account of the government for its part in financing the construction of Antioch's new water tower.

The total amount received from the government, including the final payment, was $2,700.57, about $300 short of the maximum named by the governmental agency for the local project. The engineer's original estimate of $10,138.63 would have called for the maximum grant, but the PWA pared the figure $800 used in purchasing additional real estate for the village, $329.75 for legal and engineering work, and $6.90 for extra work which the government officials claimed did not properly come under the provisions of the grant. These deductions cut the grant base to $9,001.92, and it was upon this amount that the village received 30 per cent.

SCOTT NAMED AS RECORDER AFTER EXTENDED DEBATE

County Chairman Wins by One Vote on Tenth Ballot

Howard Scott, postmaster at Fox Lake and chairman of the Republican county central committee, was elected as recorder of deeds of Lake county by the Lake county board of supervisors after a long drawn out session on Tuesday, during which many ballots were taken. Scott won by a margin of a vote over his nearest opponent, John J. Hogan, Waukegan township clerk.

After many hours debate and balloting the final vote stood 16 for Hogan and 17 for Scott. As the law provides that only a majority vote is necessary Scott was declared as elected. Jack Hoff, democrat and who was a candidate for County recorder two years ago received the support of his partisans on the board. He received 7 votes.

Scott assumed charge of the office on Wednesday and in a public statement declared that he would strive to operate it as efficiently and as economically as possible.

McMILLEN HUMBLER PLUMMER IN WINDUP AT CHARITY SHOW

2,500 Fans See Jim Triumph in Wild Match

Jim McMillen today is the undisputed heavyweight wrestling champion of Lake county by virtue of having triumphed over his old rival, Lou Plummer, in a wild and bruising match Tuesday night in the main event of the Waukegan-North Chicago charity wrestling show sponsored by the News-Sun and charity organizations.

Over 2,500 spectators saw McMillen pin his foe in 32 minutes. Plummer was the aggressor during the first half of the battle, the wily Jim allowing his opponent to wear himself down before really going to work. When Jim got going the spectators were treated to about every hold, hook and triok known to matmen. McMillen really "shot the works" and Plummer was so used up that he had to be assisted from the ring.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Radtke left this (Thursday) morning for Dallas, Texas, where they will spend some time with their daughter, Mrs. Herbert Carey. Later they expect to go to Brownsville, Texas, returning home in April.

John Brogan, who is attending school at Urbana, will be home Saturday.

DO YOU WANT A GUARDIAN?

"If any part of our people want to be wards, if they want to have guardians put over them, if they want to be taken care of, if they want to be children, patronized by the government, why, I am sorry, because it will sap the manhood of America," wrote the late President Wilson in his book, "The New Freedom." "But I don't believe they do. I believe they want to stand on the firm foundation of law and right and take care of themselves. I, for my party, don't want to belong to a nation, I believe that I do not belong to a nation, that needs to be taken care of by guardians."

In those words, the war President, who had a greater knowledge of world history than almost any man who has held the position of Chief Executive, accurately caught the true American spirit—the spirit that set this nation off from all others, dedicated to the ideals of freedom and democracy which has been subjugated with force and bloodshed in the old world. It was the spirit that led to the sailing of the Mayflower three hundred years ago—the revolutionary war—and finally, to the arduous development of the west by men who wanted no wards, and wanted only the right to work and save and make their own destinies. That spirit is our American heritage—and nothing the founders and the pioneers could have sent down to us through time could have equalled it in worth.

It is likewise the spirit that we must keep constantly in mind, as a guide to the future, if we are to endure as a democracy in which liberty is always to be maintained, and in which opportunity is to be offered to all. All paternalistic and socialistic endeavors, no matter how well and honestly meant, are at variance with this spirit—and, long enough pursued, they must inevitably result in the destruction of these institutions which are peculiarly American.

THERE IS NO FINANCIAL SANTA CLAUS

One of the greatest obstacles in the way of curing the growing tax problem is the ancient human desire to get something for nothing.

That desire is at the forefront, in times such as the present when vast sums are being spent for direct relief and for public works projects. Practically every state is making an effort to obtain a larger share of federal funds than neighboring commonwealths. One of the most potent "sales talks" of high state officials is that they have been instrumental in obtaining federal grants for their constituents.

The idea has gotten around that this money is "free." And so it is—to the extent that the state pays nothing for it directly. Yet every cent of the money comes from the federal treasury—it is made possible by federal borrowings which are secured by liens on every enterprise, every piece of property, every investment in the nation. Interest payments on the bonds must be obtained through taxation—and when the time for amortization comes, the money must also be raised by taxing the public.

Generally speaking, the federal grants are proportioned to states on the basis of population, the percentage of needy being about the same in one part of the country as another. As a result, the people of the various states will have to pay back the money they get precisely as they would if it were secured by state bonds. The only advantage the federal government has is in borrowing money at a slightly lower interest rate than a state.

This is not to argue that relief isn't necessary—it is. But it is also a fact that states are obtaining money for luxury projects which they do not need, and whose contribution to the welfare of the people is far less than it should be, in the light of their cost. Once the public learns that no one in history has managed to devise a way of getting something of value for nothing, it will demand that the states, as a whole, stop looking for a financial Santa Claus, and use more common sense.

EMULATE THE EGYPTIANS

In his annual address, N. P. Hull, President of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation, observed that we cannot continue to pile up great surpluses of all farm products without lowering prices to below production costs—and that, owing to the very nature of farming, acreage cannot be gauged in advance so that it will provide precisely the right amount of each product each year. When a farmer plants an acre of potatoes, for example, only the gods know whether the crop will be 500 bushels or 50.

Mr. Hull then said: "We must find a plan as did the ancient Egyptians to carry over from the fat years to the lean years."

Many plans have been suggested for achieving this—and farmers and farm associations can do no more vital work than to study, experiment, and finally develop the best plan that can be created. It is easy to destroy produce—it is not easy to replace it if, the year following, nature causes a deficit. Sound economic practice, plus organized effort to stabilize production and marketing, are the real allies of agriculture.

THE PRICE OF FREEDOM

There is an old saying: "Eternal vigilance is the price of freedom." That axiom is most important now, because freedom faces its greatest dangers in times of stress.

If we are to maintain our fundamental liberties—of speech, of action, of press, of church—we must pay for them in the coin of vigilance. We must not trade permanent blessings for temporary benefits—no matter how desirable those benefits seem at the moment. We must hold steadfastly to the democratic principles upon which the United States was built, and with whose aid it grew great.

Many sincere persons, carried away by their wish to better conditions, would permit our institutions to be weakened and perhaps destroyed, believing that they are no longer able to cope adequately with the problems of the modern world. The best answer to that lies in the examples of other great nations, which have jettisoned individual and corporate liberties—with disorder, bloodshed, revolutions, as the results.

Freedom is a sacred trust. It is the duty and privilege of every American to discharge the great obligation it imposes.

Offers Suggestions For Christmas Mailing

Postmaster Horan, Clerks Seek to Serve Most Efficiently

With the Christmas shopping season here again, it seems wise that your local postoffice should advise its patrons how they can help the postal workers in handling the tremendous amount of mail which this joyous season brings forth and that there be no disappointments, because of late mailings.

It is very essential that parcels be mailed early enough to reach their destination a week or so before Christmas whenever possible. Extra mail car space is needed, and very often extra trains are run over railroads throughout the country to care for the extraordinary increase in parcel post that is sent through the mails at Christmas time.

Parcels that are sent in this way, may be endorsed on the addressed side: (Do not open until Christmas) or with some other suitable inscription. Parcels, after being well packed and securely wrapped, should be addressed on one side only, because in handling, at the mailing office, endorsements, such as Insured, Special Delivery, etc., must be placed by the clerk on all addressed sides of the parcel. At the delivery office such endorsements must be looked for by the delivery clerk entailing a great amount of extra labor and time in handling these parcels.

But by no means should a communication be placed within the parcel, to do so would mean that first class postage would have to be collected. The placing of a sheet of paper or card, having the name and address of the sender on it within the parcel is advisable. Parcel post of value should be insured. It may be expedited by sending special handling or special delivery. All parcels are required to have a return address and that should be placed in the upper left hand corner, while the address should be placed in the lower right hand corner.

First class mail rates are as follows: Between postoffices, 3c; for rural delivery, 2c; and for local delivery or drop letters, 1c. First class mail must be sealed. Printed Christmas cards may be mailed in unsealed envelopes to any point in the United States at the rate of two ounces for 14c, and must contain no message other than a greeting. Merry Christmas, Happy New Year and the like are permissible. This mail matter is known as third class and cannot be forwarded to another destination nor can it be returned to the sender without another prepayment of postage. First class mail is forwarded or returned providing a new address is on file at the office of address or if the letter has a return address unit.

Valuable first class mail should be registered. Special delivery service is also provided. Air mail service may also be had, requiring only about half the time to reach destination of distant cities, at six cents an ounce or fraction thereof.

If you are in doubt as to whether your mail is overweight for the postage you have attached, have it weighed and avoid delay in delivery.

The personnel at the Antioch post office take pride in maintaining efficient and obliging service. Your cooperation during the Christmas rush will do much toward lightening their work and assure correct and speedy handling of the mails.

Report Increase in Sale of Christmas Seals

Preliminary reports to the Illinois Tuberculosis Association from affiliated organizations throughout the state show that early returns from the 1934 Christmas Seal Sale are considerably greater than last year.

Improved business conditions, and a growing realization on the part of the public that recent increases in the number of tuberculosis cases must not continue, are responsible for the gains, according to Dr. H. N. Hoffin, Kewanee, president of the health organization.

A Little Cat Lost

A Christmas Story

by

Martha Banning Thomas

"PETER, that little boy in the apartment on the first floor has lost his kitten again!"

"Good heavens!" Peter whipped the paper over to the financial sheet. "That makes the fourth time, doesn't it? I hope you're not blinding that I go out this cold night and hunt for it."

"No-o-o, but I talked to his mother today, and she said Allan's Christmas would be ruined if they couldn't find that kitten. She said that he wouldn't look at the tree they brought. She said that to divert his thoughts, she gave him a present beforehand—a large toy dumpcart. He put it on the floor and went to the window. He just stands there, Peter, looking and looking. 'Why don't his own parents go out and scour the neighborhood? I don't quite see where we come in.'"

"They have, Peter. But the boy's father is away all day, and has had to work late all this week. His mother can't leave the child alone down there, and he's too little to walk far . . . and she can't push the dumpcart through all this snow."

"Um-m-m . . . well, I see that more snow is expected tonight."

"Peter!"

Down went the paper with an irritated rustle. "Say it out loud, Mary! You want me to get out of my house all night, put on my coat, and get chilblains hunting for somebody else's cat."

Mary sighed. "I've been out until I had to get dinner," she said. "I know you don't want to but . . ."

A door in the lower hall opened. A childish cry came up the stairs. "My kitten! He'll be all cold and huddled!"

"The outside hall door shut. 'There goes his mother. She didn't even ask me to stay with Allen.'"

"It's not so now a man can't have a moment's peace in his own house, even on Christmas eve," rumbled Peter. In a minute he was ready to go out.

"You're a darling!" beamed Mary. "I'm ready to choke you!" said Peter, smiling in a cross, ruffled way.

Mary ran downstairs to stay with Allen. Peter slammed out the door.

The streets were still deep with snow. All day and all night it had fallen. The trees bent under it. The bushes were hidden beneath a white burden.

Mary stayed for an hour with Allen. At the end of that time there was the sound of much merriment on the walk. Two persons came in the hall, pounded on the door.

"That's a Mummy!" cried Allen. "And I know she's got kitty!"

It was Mummy. It was Peter. It was kitty.

"Found the poor little thing hunched under a box in the back yard of a store! Well, boy . . . take your cat, and Merry Christmas!"

On the way upstairs again, Peter's arm crept about Mary. "That woman is a good little scout. Lots of pluck. I guess when you have a kid . . . you like to please him . . . even if it's a great nuisance. Glad you told me. What say, Mary, we have our tree this minute? I'm bursting with good will, and I feel like presents!"

So they laid their tree. And Allen had his kitty.

No Mistake

A Christmas Story

By Helen Galsford

"CHRISTMAS," reasoned Mary, "is a very foolish time to quarrel with one's sweetheart."

She was knitting halfheartedly on the tie she had started for Bob a week ago. Well, now it could be for her father. The color might be a bit too bright—if Bob only weren't so stubborn! The needles clicked viciously. Her mother was busy wrapping presents. "Mary," she called, "don't you want to invite Bob for Christmas dinner?"

"No, thanks," she answered rather stiffly. "That affair's all over."

"You haven't broken up!" Her mother came to the door. "Why, Bob is quite the nicest boy you've ever gone with. I'll bet he's blue."

"There!" Mary interrupted. "The tie's finished. Put it in with my other present for Dad, will you, Mother, and I'll go up in the attic and find the Christmas tree decorations."

It was such a queer Christmas morning! Mary kept having a little lump in her throat, and every time anyone said: "Merry Christmas," she wanted to snap: "Oh, yeah?"

Not just when it was time to put the potatoes around the turkey, and start

"So have I. It was all my fault."

"No, it was mine."

"Bob, don't argue. It was mine."

"Anyway, forgive me." He kissed her and held her close and whispered in her ear.

After a while she pulled away. "Bob, where did you ever get that tie?"

"Why, you sent it to me."

"Oh, of course. Excuse me a moment." In the kitchen she confronted her mother. "Did you send Bob that tie?" she demanded.

"Why, yes, dear," the older woman admitted. "Did I make a mistake?"

"Mistake nothing!" She caught her in a bear hug. "Bob and I are going to be married, darling. Isn't this a wonderful Christmas?"

Millions of bees recently raided the sugar vats of the sugar refining works in a suburb of Auckland, New Zealand. Workmen, attired in light clothing because of the great heat, attempted to rout them, and were seriously stung. Thousands of bees were drowned in the sirup and refining had to be stopped until the dead of bottle were removed.

Whirling Thunder

Entertains Students

On Thursday, December 20, the high school students were entertained by Chief Whirling Thunder, a Winnebago Indian, who came from Chicago Indian Council Fire. He is the same chief who entertained the Women's Club this fall.

Chief Whirling Thunder gave a talk and a demonstration of Indian dances, and he spent his time after the assembly teaching the cheer-leaders the dance to our new Sequoits Indian song, written by Mr. Richey and Mr. von Holwege. The chief will also make the costumes for our cheer-leaders. He attended the basketball game at night and gave an Indian dance between games.

Sequoits Win Again

The local basketball team defeated Bensenville Friday night in a double bill at the latter's gym. The first team triumphed after a thrilling battle in which the Sequoits more than held their own after the loss of two regulars. The final score was 22-21. Simpson and Bishop led the scoring with four baskets and a free throw apiece. Freeman and Jennings displayed great offensive and defensive power for the Panthers. The Sequoits overcame Bensenville's first quarter advantage to lead at half time 15-14.

The second team won a sluggish slow moving battle 16-10. The boys lacked coordination in their attack and passed up many opportunities to score.

Students Present Plays

On Friday, December 21, at 2:30 o'clock, the Antioch High School will present its Christmas Program to which the public is invited. The program will include singing by the assembly and two plays. Juniors Enjoy Dance

Last Saturday evening, December 8, the Junior class held a dancing party in the high school auditorium. The party was a great success. Everyone enjoyed it immensely, and the juniors surely would like to have another one soon. It offered a good opportunity for many of the juniors to learn how to dance. A majority of the class attended, and all who were there danced and had a great time doing it. Refreshments were served the latter part of the evening. The splendid music was furnished by the "Jolly Five" jazz orchestra.

Sequoits Lose Two

By Close Scores

After three early season victories, the Sequoits lost to Libertyville on Tuesday night, 28-23, and were defeated Friday night by Arlington, 25 to 24.

In the Libertyville game the Sequoits fought a determined battle without the services of two regulars. Phil, sophomore forward, was unable to play because of injury, and Steffenberg, center, was absent from the line up on account of illness.

The Sequoits battled Coach Martin's men basket for basket, taking the lead for a moment at the start of the fourth quarter. Bishop broke through the Libertyville defense for five ragers, and Hawkins playing center for the first time turned in a great performance at the keystone position.

In the Arlington game the Sequoits pulled up at the close of the first half on the short end of the score, but managed to pick up during the third quarter. Bishop was the main spring of the offense and played a classy game on defense.

The locals will journey to Bensenville Friday and to Lake Zurich the following Tuesday. The last game before Christmas will be played with Loyden on December 20.

A Christmas Reunion

By Helen Gaisford

CHRISTMAS DAY! But not the happy chimes of former years rang through the little town.

A week ago, the tolling bells had meant another death, but now the fever was so devastating that not even that slight notice was paid the victims.

To the tired doctors and nurses, rushed in from surrounding cities, Christmas meant only another day dawning after another sleepless night.

Dr. Dickinson, passing through an improvised ward, spoke to the nurse. "You'd better get a cup of coffee, Miss Wilson, and I'll try to find a relief. When did you sleep last?"

"I came down two days ago," she answered, "but it does not matter. There is too much to be done for me to stop now. I do believe your treatments are getting results, and please, doctor—I want to see it through."

"You're a plucky girl, but I must warn you not to break down your own health. I suppose I need you too much to let as I should." He finished one examination and passed to the next patient.

"Do you realize today is Christmas?" he asked. "All over the world people are going to church, and eating fine dinners, and exchanging calls and presents."

"And we are keeping Christmas in the best way of all," she answered. "In service."

"You're right. Christmas doesn't mean much to me, anyway."

"It does to me. This is my birthday, besides."

"Your birthday?"

"Yes, I was a Christmas baby. Why, doctor, what's the matter?"

He seemed to shake himself back to normal. "Excuse me. It's just—well, you startled me for a moment."

"FELICIA, I forgot to bring anything for your Uncle Hurry!" Father, mother, and daughter-halfway-through-high-school were in a huddle in the pantry, with the kid brother Ripley ("Rip" for short) hovering curiously beyond the door.

"He won't care, Dad." The pretty brunette girl relished her father of his bundles. "With his radio set going over in a big way he can buy anything he likes. I hope he remembers a wrist watch with a little diamond in a nice watch with a wrist with none."

"Whatever he gives you, Felicia, act as if it's what you want most," her mother warned. "Hurry on would rather be appreciated than anything else in the world. He knows I like pretty negligees. I let him know how I enjoy his presents."

"I was trying to land that contract with Davidson," the father explained, "and I spent most of the evening with him at the McAlpin. When I left there was barely an hour to shop. I didn't dare take a late train, knowing we still had to decorate."

"Did you get the new ornaments?" Mother was pulling at a knobby package.

"Here, don't bother that. It's this one." Father tried to take off his muffler, while watching the parcels, with eight-year-old Rip calling, "Aren't you even going to say 'Hello, Dad'?"

"Sure, son! I was helping Santa with his pack, that's all."

"Santa, humpf! Did you get my bi-glet?"

"We'll see! We'll see!" As he went upstairs, trailed by boyish impatience, the words floated back, "I simply forgot Hurry. There'd have been time if I'd—"

"Felicia can go to the haberdashery's right here," his wife solved the matter. "The important thing is to get the tree finished and the gifts spread under it before Hurry comes. He always admires my tree. Felicia, buy him one gift from your father and me, and one from you and your brother."

"What would Uncle Hurry like, mother?"

"At-mm. He has everything he needs, and he never mentions anything he wants. Ask the clerk to suggest something."

The silver star was aglow, the last fat Santa Claus clinging to a limb, Felicia's purchases had been hastily wrapped in golden and green tissue, when the door burst open admitting Horigan Carter of "Hurry and Haste" radio comedy team. His arms were full of red, green, and holly-papered parcels, and behind him came the cheery chauffeur, his arms full, too.

"Drop 'em, James my lad. Now hurry to that girl of yours and make hay while the snow falls. Come for me at eleven. Here, don't you need a little extra? It's Christmas." Uncle Hurry put a bill in the man's hand and clapped the door shut.

"Felicia, what a lovely tree! You always have something original. So-phi-la. Hurry, how's business? And," (looking around) "where's Rip?"

"Ripley!" called Felicia, flinging open the dining room door.

In the midst of discarded outer wrappings, a red-faced small boy was struggling with tissue and ribbons.

"Aw, gee, Felice. I wanted to tie it myself. Aw, gee. Why'd you have to go open the door? I spent all the money I earned cuttin' lawns last summer and shovellin' snow this week, an— Aw, gee, it's a fine gift. If I could get it fixed, it would look swell."

Uncle Hurry jumped to close the door. "Go ahead, old fellow. We won't look."

"It's no use. Everybody's saw." Rip came toward them with the gift protruding from its wrappings. It was a salad bowl, with a wooden mixing spoon.

"Who's it for, Ripley?" mother asked.

"Uncle Hurry!"

Felicia began to laugh. "What a gift for Uncle Hurry! Why, Rip, you give salad bowls to ladies, not men."

Rip looked disconsolate. "He said he wanted it. We were passing that shop where they sell old things and he said—you did, Uncle Hurry, you said, 'Jove what a quaint salad bowl! I'd like that.'"

"Of course I did. Next day when I went to buy it for my kitchenette they said it had been put aside for someone. It's great to get it this way!"

"I guess even Santa Claus would rather what he wanted was given to him than to buy it for himself," said Rip wisely.

Christmas Trees

By MARJORIE HAYES
in Boston Herald

NEARLY every one has a Christmas tree nowadays, but if you had been a child in America a hundred years ago the chances are that you might never have seen one. The custom was universal in England many years before it was very common here, except in communities of German or Scandinavian settlers. For it was in Germany that the Christmas tree had its origin. There are several different legends in regard to it. Here is one which dates from the Twelfth century.

An English monk named Winfred who had gone as a missionary into Germany, came upon some priests about to sacrifice this young prince Aulst to the god Thor beneath the "blood oak." He stopped their ceremonies and ordered them to cut down the oak, whereupon a young fir tree appeared in its place which Winfred told them signified the tree of life, or of Christ's living. From that time Germans who became Christians made the fir a part of the Christmas festival, decorating it with gilded nuts and apples to shine like stars.

The two trees most commonly used for Christmas trees are the spruce and fir. They look very much alike, but the spruce is likely to shed its needles after two or three days in the house, while the fir remains in good condition much longer. There are several ways in which you may distinguish them, first the cones. Those of the spruce hang downward while the cones of the fir are held erect. This will not be much help to you in selecting a Christmas tree, however, as they are usually not old enough to bear cones. But if you examine a twig of the spruce you will find it covered with little horny projections in which the needles are set.

The spruce tree is pyramidal in shape, the long cones hanging from the branches near the top. The needles are arranged in spiral rows around the stem, those at the top pointing sharply upward. They have three or four distinctly angled sides. Some common varieties are the red, black, white and Norway spruce. Spruce timber has been used a great deal of late years for wood pulp.

Fir trees in various sections of the country are the balsam firs which grow abundantly in the mountains and which we find displayed in our markets at Christmas time. The fir is shaped much like the spruce, but the needles are flat and blunt, and usually spread feather-wise from two sides of the stem only. They are dark green above and silvery beneath. The dark purple cones stand erect gleaming with balsam near the top. Balsam also exudes from the trunk, and is used for medicine. The fresh needles are used as a stuffing for sweet-smelling balsam pillows.

Another evergreen sometimes used as a Christmas tree is the hemlock. It is more slender than the spruce, with feathery waving branches which grow very close to the ground. The needles are arranged in two flat rows on the twigs, and have tiny stems. They are soft, and silvery underneath. The cones are tiny, growing at the ends of the twigs. The bark is used in tanning leather. Wreaths made of branches with little cones on them are very lovely.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"God the Preserver of Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 10.

The Golden Text was, "The Lord preserveth all them that love him" (Psalms 145:20).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Thy mercy, O Lord, is in the heavens; and thy faithfulness reacheth unto the clouds. Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep; O Lord, thou preservest man and beast. How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings" (Psalms 36:5-7).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "In divine Science, man is sustained by God, the divine Principle of being. The earth, at God's command, brings forth food for man's use. Knowing this, Jesus once said, 'Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, - providing not on the provocation of the Father and Mother of all, as able to feed and clothe the man as He doth the lilies' (p. 530).

"We Do Our Part"

MUCH effort is being put forth on every hand to restore what the human mind calls normal times, and many plans are being tried in the endeavor to accomplish this purpose. Wide appeal has been made in the United States for cooperation, and some show their willingness to cooperate by agreeing to certain codes; such are permitted to display a card on which is printed an emblem bearing the words, "We Do Our Part." Those who are permitted to advertise that they are doing their part must closely watch to see that they live up to their declaration.

In considering true cooperative effort in the highest—the spiritual—sense, we must discover where it is we begin to do our part. All the material codes we may subscribe to, and all the declarations we may make, will be of no real value unless we gain the true significance of cooperation. We must get the right idea of cooperation before we can see it manifested outwardly. Thus it is in our consciousness that the first steps toward doing our part are to be taken. It is an individual effort, and each individual must, of necessity, do his part before it can be done collectively.

Are we employees with an exaggerated sense of our true worth, feeling that we are not being properly compensated? Are we harboring a sense of resentment toward our employers, doing our work in a careless manner, giving as little as we can, thinking in this way to measure the amount of work we do by what we get? Or are we cheerfully striving to bring out the highest sense of service by putting forth our best efforts to give and do the very best we can, happy in the thought that we are loyally and lovingly cooperating with those with whom and for whom we are working, realizing our opportunities and the privilege it is to do our part in the great work of helping mankind?

Missouri's Constitution The constitution of the state of Missouri, drawn in 1820, provided that an amendment to the constitution could be proposed by two-thirds of both houses of the general assembly.

LEAGUE SEEKS LOWER AUTO TAXES

Legislature's Inability to Act Is Bunk, St. Mayer Declares

"It's the bunk," says St. Mayer, managing executive of the Automobile Tax Reduction League and president of the Automobile Club of Illinois. "The authentic answer," says Mayer, "is unmistakably clear language, was published in the 1933 edition of 'Illinois Attorney General's Opinions' (page 117) wherein Attorney General Oscar E. Carstrom rendered opinion No. 82, which says in part:

"... I am of the opinion that the law does not prohibit the legislature from abolishing, reducing or increasing the motor vehicle fees at any time it sees fit so to do, but I am of the opinion further, that the representations to the People of the State of Illinois at the time the $60,000,000 bond issue was submitted, and also at the time the $100,000,000 bond issue was submitted, giving assurance that no direct tax would be levied, but that the principal and interest of both bond issues would be paid for out of automobile license fees, constitute an implied moral obligation not to reduce the automobile license fees, below a point where they will amortize both bond issues, unless some other method of realizing revenues, other than by direct taxation on property, is developed to substitute for the revenue derived from automobile licenses, out of which both bond issues may be retired and paid without any direct taxation."

Did not the other method of realizing revenues become effective four years later (1929) via the gasoline tax? ... AND HOW! It was to the type of rates which should never have been higher than 2c per gallon, but which in 1933 alone brought the State additional revenues of $25,533,411 ... over 70 per cent more than the $16,299,327 collected in vehicle license fees during that same year.

With the license fees and gasoline tax reduced to the point where the surplus of income will be a surplus of income beyond the combined possible expenditures for retirement of bonds, interest, maintenance of highways and new construction. Additionally, there would be an enormous increase in car registrations and gasoline consumption, due to lowered license fees and gasoline tax.

Nayer states that the objectives of the League are four-fold:

1. An act that will end for all time the diverting of highway funds.
2. State license plates reduced to a flat $3.00 charge for every type of motor vehicle.
3. One cent off the state gasoline tax, reducing it to 2 cents per gallon.
4. A provision forbidding any municipality to impose a city vehicle tax in excess of $2.50.

In the first half of 1934, 255 new oil wells were drilled in California fields compared with 199 for the same period of 1933.

GIRL SCOUTS HOLD CHRISTMAS PARTY

On Wednesday evening the Lone Star Troop of the Antioch Girl Scouts held their Christmas party at the American Legion Headquarters. The Gray Dawn Patrol were acting hostesses and served a very delicious supper at six o'clock. The rooms were decorated in Christmas colors and napkins embossed with the Girl Scout emblem came all the way from New York to grace the tables. Table covers were made of polka-dot paper and the red and green nut cups added to the holiday effect.

Each Girl Scout dressed a doll and entered them in the Doll Contest; these to be sent to some children's home for Christmas. The chairman of the Welfare Committee of the American Legion Auxiliary acted as judge, prizes going to Carolyn Phillips, Katherine Smith and Roberta Selzer.

Following the supper the game of Christmas Trees was played, prizes going to Mildred Horan and Joyce Anderson. The Progressive Alphabet game was won by Vannie Jensen and Catherine McCorkle. Two prizes were given for comical stunts, these going to Mary Osmond and Mildred Van Patten. Mrs. G. E. Phillips, Captain, presented gold and silver stars for last year's attendance, the following scouts being honored: Vannie Jensen, Katherine Smith, Betty Hanke, Irene Pachey, Roberta Selzer, Mildred Horan, Gertrude Horan, Carolyn Phillips, Myrtle Lovested, Mary Osmond, Shirley Hennings, Lucille Walters.

The Gray Dawn Patrol officers are: Carolyn Phillips, Leader; Myrtle Lovested, Asst. Leader; Lorraine Laursen, Treasurer; Helen Horan, Gertrude Horan, and Catherine McCorkle, Hostesses.

Hughes Announces New Regulations For Auto Licenses

Springfield, Ill.—The latest regulations for the guidance of Illinois automobile owners in applying for their 1935 motor vehicle licenses were announced recently by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

Chief among them are the following:

Applications for either passenger car or truck license must be submitted on special forms provided by the secretary of state, which may be obtained from city and county clerks, automobile agencies, newspaper offices, notaries and at gasoline filling stations.

All questions contained on application forms must be answered in full. Applications must be signed in person by the individual requesting license and attested by notary public. Application, if sent through the mail, must be accompanied by certified check, draft or money order for the amount of the license fee.

Owners re-registering the same vehicle must return last registration card with application for new plates. It is not necessary to take out a new certificate of title if one was obtained in 1934. Certificate of title is good for the life of the car when in the possession of the original owner. If, however, ownership is transferred at any time, a new certificate must be obtained.

Those registering new cars for the first time are required to apply for titles, which will be issued upon presentation of authenticated bills of sale.

An applicant for plates for a newly acquired used car must furnish evidence of ownership in the form of a properly endorsed certificate of title from the previous owner.

Persons applying through the mail for license plates for more than one car should forward a separate check or money order with each application.

Car owners who have operated unlicensed vehicles any time previous to December 28 must pay for the unregistered period of 1934 before 1935 plates can be issued to them.

The law requires car owners to display 1935 license plates on January 1. Secretary Hughes pointed out.

Dancing on the Ceiling
Up to a few years ago in the rural sections of the Tyrol in Austria, the "ceiling dance" usually ended each party. Balancing their partners upside down over their heads, the husky maidens would dance on the floor while their men danced on the ceiling.—Collier's Weekly

SALES TAX

as it did, to expire July 1," Green declared. "The special session cost $16,000 and nothing was accomplished, because the act which was amended is unconstitutional and a non-entity."

Charges Falsification.
Green charged that someone had falsified the records in seeking to correct the error.

"There can be no correction except by the legislature itself," Green said. "Printed copies of the bill which were placed upon the desks of all members of the legislature when the amendment was voted upon state specifically that the bill proposed to extend the act of March 22, 1933, which had been held unconstitutional."

"That was the only subject before the legislature. The bill passed the attorney general's inspection, the governor's inspection when he signed the bill and the inspection of the legislative committee."

The Rockford representative charged that "after conferences in the governor's office with the attorney general and the Chicago bunch, some 'unknown party' falsified the record."

May Ask Investigation.
Green indicated that he may request the state's attorney of Sangamon county to investigate the alleged falsification.

"If the records have been falsified somebody should be indicted," Green declared. "In order to change the records, the entire title of the bill would have to be changed. The records are in charge of the secretary of state."

It is considered probable that the general assembly will take steps to correct the error at the regular session in January.

"The state was put to the expense of $15,000 for the special session," Green pointed out. "If the legislature can extend the sales tax at the regular session in January, there was no need for the special session."

The representative stated that if a properly tax is not reenacted, the state administration must control the January session of the legislature in order to extend the Horner sponsored sales tax.

Predicts Tax Increase.
Green predicted that the administration will attempt to increase the sales tax to 3 per cent because of the heavy relief burden facing the state. "They've got to get $36,000,000 for relief," he explained. Green charged that the sales tax hasn't been used for relief since December, 1933.

"We've tried repeatedly to get it for relief or schools but have been unable to do so," he stated. "It goes into the general fund to help meet the payroll."

Father's Ingenuity

A Christmas Story
By Alice B. Palmer

"I WAS just two weeks before Christmas and there did not appear to be any material means of attaining the necessary funds for the great celebration.

"Oh dear, if John would only sell that old heirloom," thought Marty Armstrong.

Just then Betty and Jerry came charging in from high school.

"Oh, Mother, I just can't wait until Christmas. I know you are going to get that tuxedo for me. I can see it now, oh boy!" exclaimed Jerry.

"And I can see that party gown, Mother, with slippers to match," said Betty, sweetly.

"It's no use expecting anything this year, children," said mother. "Your father has made some unwise investments."

"Here comes father, now!"

"Hello, everybody, what's up? Why the frigid atmosphere?" queried father.

"Mother says there's to be no Santa Claus this year," ventured Jerry.

The next few days John Armstrong was trying to figure it all out. Perhaps he had been a little negligent in the past few years concerning his family. Now he realized that he must make amends.

Christmas bells were chiming, reminding the Armstrong family that 'twas truly Christmas eve. Mother and the children were thinking of the things they were not going to get for Christmas. But Father was chuckling.

Inwardly, in fact he could scarcely keep from bursting out laughing; but that, of course, would never do.

The silence was broken by the jingling of sleigh bells. They hurried en masse to see what it was all about.

Were they all dreaming? There stood an old-fashioned bobbed. Out stepped Santa Claus.

"Why, Uncle Joe, what are you doing here on Christmas eve?" exclaimed Mother, all excited.

"I've come to take you and the family for a ride. So bundle up and hop in, without delay."

All stared at one another and tried to speak, but not a word was uttered. They simply obeyed their Santa Claus and within a few moments Father and all were seated cozily within the fairyland contraption and were driven off.

The sleigh stopped with a jerk, right in front of a steeple hung about all brilliantly lighted up with Christmas decorations.

"Why, I never knew the Thompson home was for rent. It has stood vacant so long," said Mother, with great concern.

"A friend of mine from the office just purchased it," said Father, with a convincing smile.

"We were invited over to see it in its new regalia. But you were all out of sorts that I called up Uncle Joe and ordered the Santa Claus ride."

They all laughed most heartily. They couldn't help it—Christmas or no Christmas! They had to give father credit for his clever ingenuity.

Out they hopped, beaming with the Christmas spirit.

Father took the lead and rang the doorbell, but no one answered.

Then he actually turned the knob as they all stepped back in protestation.

"Merry Christmas!" shouted Father. Too surprised to speak, they looked at one another and back again at father and then—

"Don't you understand? Oh, hanz it all, anyway! This is your Christmas present!" said father, sinking into the closest easy chair and gasping for breath.

"What?" they all exclaimed.

Then father explained it all to them—how he had sold the old heirloom, purchased the home and furnished it.

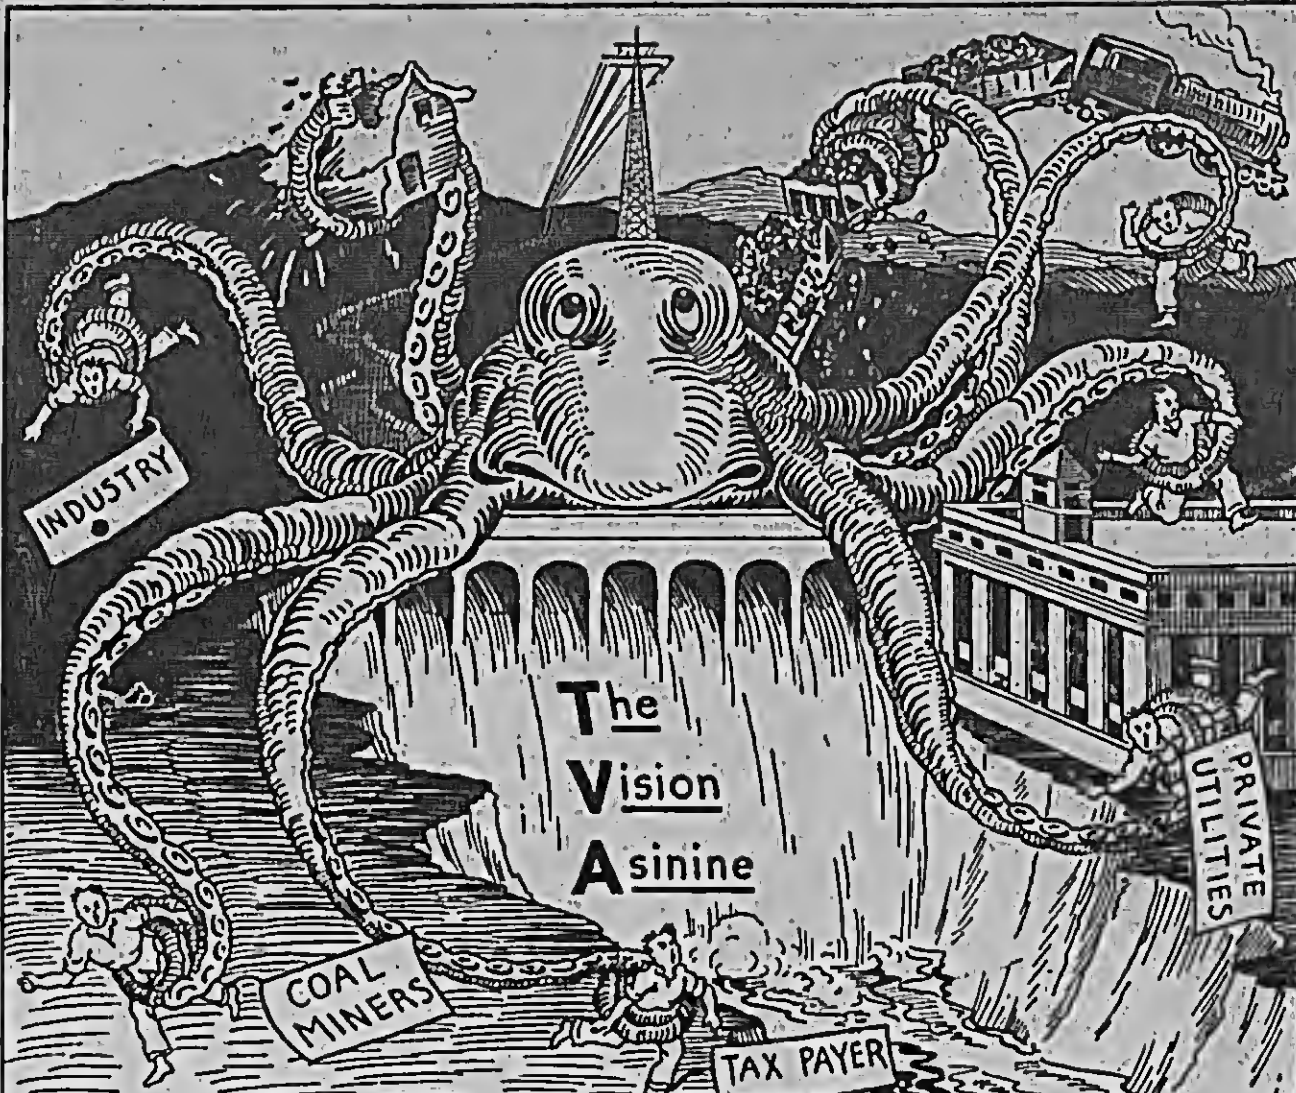

They marveled! "How could you? When did you? How did you know just what we liked?" All these questions were fired at father at once.

Father had done a perfect job. But that wasn't all. He led them proudly into the living room where stood the real host of the evening—the gorgeous Christmas tree. Needless to say Jerry received his "tux," Betty her gown and slippers and another set of silverware, a long-desired luxury.

Then descended such a shower of Christmas hugs and kisses, gratitude and joy that dear old father was practically snowed under. But he enjoyed his Christmas presents better than all the material gifts he had bestowed upon his family; and he felt that his heart was filled with enough Christmas cheer to last forever.

THE LAWYER EXPLAINS

By Attorney Bernard J. Juron

BANKRUPTCY

Bankruptcy, in a legal sense, refers to proceedings in the United States District Court, whereby the petitioner asks the Court to release him from the payment of all his debts and obligations. When a person files a petition in bankruptcy, he must, at the same time, surrender to the Court all of his property for the benefit of his creditors. Failure to do so can result in serious penalties by fine and jail. When such a petition is filed with the Court, the clerk notifies all of the creditors thereof by mailing a printed post-card containing the notice of the proceedings. This is the only notice which a creditor receives, to give him an opportunity to check up on the bankrupt and determine whether the bankrupt has surrendered all of his property to the Court.

After preliminary hearings and examinations by the Court, the bankrupt can file a petition to be discharged from his debts. Thereafter, an order of discharge is entered which absolutely cancels all of his obligations, whether they be written or oral contracts, notes or judgments or leases.

One of the exceptions to this rule is that certain obligations are not interfered with by the bankruptcy law. For instance, liability to pay support money to a wife or children even after divorce, and certain judgments known as "torts" are not subject to release. By tort judgments is meant damages which have been obtained as, for instance, resulting from injuries to the person sustained in a personal fight or combat.

The power of the bankruptcy court is far-reaching, and that court will not permit any interference with its administration of the question before it. If any suits are pending against the bankrupt, the United States Court will issue an injunction, restraining the parties from proceeding or enforcing their rights thereunder. Any creditor attempting to proceed further, after being enjoined or restrained, would subject himself to serious penalties, and be held in contempt of the Federal Court.

As a general rule, when our debtor has completed his proceedings in bankruptcy it means that your claim no longer exists.

In the next issue, we shall take up the question of Administrator and Executor.

Friday evening the Clowin Band from the Kenosha Post of the American Legion gave a performance at the camp. Camp officials report that they have been handicapped in the formation of a glee club, and in recreational activities by the lack of a piano and are anxious to get in touch with any one wishing to dispose of a piano.

Union Free High School

Rochester defeated the school basketball team last Friday night at the gymnasium in the first conference game of the season by a score of 23-13. Saturday night, December 15, the second conference game will be played at the gymnasium with Watertown as opponents.

Dogs Have Topknot

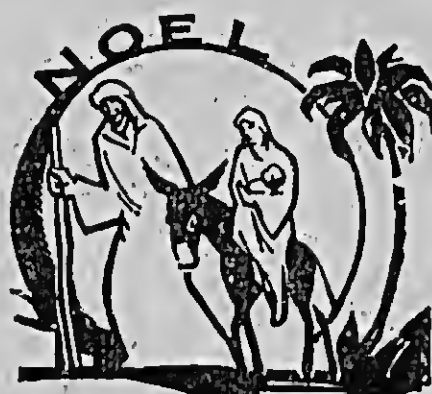

Many dogs of the Mexican hairless variety are crested with a topknot and carry a tuft of hair at the tip of the tail. . . . in other, it is bristly and upright. The eyes, lashes, are yellow, hazel or dark, bordered with pink or dark ring. Like that of an impatient race horse, the nervous tremor of the muscles and sinews is characteristic. Not classed for any particular utility, he is considered, however, a good hunter of rabbits and rats. His owners attest that his intelligence, brightness and affection more than repay that tolerance of his unprepossessing appearance.

By-Products From Corn

From the kernels of corn are derived yeast, gluten, dry and wet starches. Dry starch is used in making textiles, paper, confectionery, explosives, adhesives, colors and fireworks. Sugar is derived from the wet starch for use in dietetics, brewing, alcohol, fermentations, etc. Also, corn oil, soap, glycerin, salad and other oils may be derived from the germ in the corn.

Music at Christmas Time

THE first Christmas night was God's special benediction on music. By His divine sanction it was the means of proclaiming the advent of a hope and happiness hitherto not considered ordained for humanity. On the night when the Christ child was born, heavenly singers were sent forth and the music of celestial choirs was heard for the first time by human ears. The melody of that glorious hymn came and passed into the harmony of the spheres beyond our ken and only the message of peace was handed down to the generations to come. How different the destiny of music had the pattern of celestial harmony and the melody the angels sang been preserved for us. It was left for man to find within himself the heavenly music.

No event in the history of the world has set vibrating the finest chords of music in the hearts of the gifted ones equal to the festival of the birth of the Christ child. The supernatural messengers announcing His coming, the loveliness of character of His mother, the heavens themselves exulting at His birth are subjects which to contemplate but a moment awakens music in the heart and forms a song in the stillness thereof that is the echo of that song that rang through the universe that starry night 2,000 years ago. Yet the melody the angels sang was lost.

Mary, His mother, gave vent to the fullness of her heart when she knew that she was to be the chosen one of her people in the magnificent "Magnificat," the poetry of which still has power to thrill whenever its spontaneous glorification of the Lord is heard. Yet the melody the Virgin sang is lost.

Tender Lullaby Were Crooned by the Young Mother.

The lullaby crooned by the young mother in the stillness of the moments when the divine child was lulled to sleep have had no listener who passed them on to an eager world. What could have been the burden of the intimate things of which the mother sang when the restless world was shut away and the two, closely entwined, communed together, with the knowledge of their destiny hovering about them. Did she sing Him tender baby songs that made no reference to His divinity or did she praise Him as her God and sing her fidelity as she held Him close and soothed His earthly weakness? Did she beg of Him to spare her the suffering she knew awaited them or did she encourage Him in tender human fashion to bear the terrible human agony fore-ordained for Him? The lullabies that soothed the sacred child were never heard by profane ears.

In the life of Christ there must have been much music. Descended from the greatest singer of all times, the psalmist David, and His advent into the world proclaimed by the singers from His heavenly home, there was a human and divine heritage of music woven into the scheme of His existence on earth. In the childhood years of the Lord, what were His childish pleasures, what were His childish songs? Was the soul of the young Saviour too and for singing or did He fashion Himself songs from a heavenly source whispered by angels or did He sing the songs of His people heard on the lips of His companions? In the synagogue did He praise His Father after the manner of David and to the tune of the lute and was His sacred voice heard when He read from the scriptures. The songs the Saviour sang have vanished.

Yet the music of that sacred time is not lost, for it is born again in the hearts of the great composers. But by the melody that was heard the first Christmas night has come back to us distilled from the pens of the specially chosen, and who is there to say it is not akin to the music of the celestial choirs? The imperishable urge of melody, the grandeur of musical thought, the loftiness of inspiration must surely be from the same source as was the music that was heard but once on earth.

It was not without intent that the message of peace was sent out on the "wings of song," for that is the power of music—to bring peace. Nor was it by chance that the melody came from the heavens, for over the inward eyes of the soul turn heavenward under the influence of great earthly music. The radiance of the star shines in the heart under the touch of melody and the soul expands to a fuller comprehension of the promises for eternity. —Washington Star.

Edison Disliked Decorations

Upon Thomas Edison's second trip to Europe this French Telephone company offered him a decoration which required that he wear a long sash. But the Edison family refused, with the assertion that he couldn't "stand for that." Persuaded by his wife, he did however consent to wear the little red button of the League of Honor. But whenever he saw any American approaching he would slip the button into his pocket for fear, as he said, "they might think I am trying to show off."

Operated by Mouse Power

In the Nineteenth century, a man in Scotland perfected a machine that was operated by mouse power. Running in revolving cages, the mice manufactured sewing thread, twisting and reeling 26 feet a day, writes W. T. Hoagie, Denton, Texas, in Collier's Weekly. The inventor was building a mill to use 10,000 mice when he died. Apparently he never realized the work involved in putting them in and taking them out of 10,000 cages each day.

Growth of Brazil

Brazil has an estimated population of nearly 45,000,000, and is growing at the rate of a million a year. It has more than half of all the people in South America. It has nearly one-half of the whole Latin population in the Western Hemisphere, from the Straits of Magellan to the Rio Grande. In area it is a couple of hundred thousand square miles larger than the United States without Alaska and the Philippines.

Santa's Joined the "Caterpillar Club"

By Earle Hooker Eaton

THE motor car now goes so fast, That reindeer days are largely past, And airplanes will may do the work Of Santa who will never shrink The job of giving girls and boys Their sleds and dolls and other toys: For Santa has a parachute, And "bails out" on the chimney route, For just like "Lindy," he's no dub— He's joined the "Caterpillar Club!"

If reindeer throw a shoe or two, And fail to get the cargo through; If motor cars blow out a tire, Or get all messed up in the mire; And Santa Claus is in despair, He merely flies up in the air, And if the airplane tells him too, He drags straight down the chimney flue, For just like "Lindy," he's no dub— He's joined the "Caterpillar Club!"

9 Elements in Christ's Time

Only nine of the ninety-two chemical elements were known before Christ—copper, gold, iron, lead, mercury, silver, tin, carbon and sulphur. No new ones were added until 1250, when arsenic, and in 1450, antimony were discovered.

A HAPPY and prosperous New Year! All day the words had been flung at Bob Cameron; everywhere he went they echoed in his ears. He wanted to shut them out, to forget that a New Year was beginning.

Last night, in summing up the old year, he had come to the conclusion that he was an utter failure, that he might as well discard the idea of becoming a writer. Every story that he had sent out had come back. It was true that a few editors had encouraged him—one of the best known in the country had told him to keep on, that he had a fine literary style. But none of them had kept his offerings.

Bob felt that the vilest thing he could do was to chuck the whole thing at the beginning of the New Year. Yet down in his heart he knew that writing was a part of him; that it would be an almost impossible task to keep away from the typewriter desk in his den. But he would have to do it, a man couldn't hold a girl to a promise, with nothing to offer her but failure.

Bob knew that Dorothy Trent was back of his resolution to quit the writing game. He loved Dorothy and she loved him. They had been engaged since their senior year at Northwestern. It was time that he should say something about marriage; it was not fair to hold her as he was doing. He would have to get a position that would enable him to keep a girl like

"It Will Be Glorious to Help You Work Out Your Career."

Dorothy; he couldn't ask her to exist on the meager pittance he was getting from the Fryer company. He had taken the job simply because it gave him so much time for writing, earning nothing at the time for the small salary and the lack of opportunity that it held.

The unhappiness brought by his resolve showed plainly in the weary droop of Bob's shoulders and the tired lines on his boyish face. He found it hard to join in the small talk and fun of the New Year's party that was going on. If Dorothy had been so insistent upon his coming, he would have remained away, for he was in no mood for frivolity. And now, an even deeper bitterness had crept into his heart, as he watched the crowd pay tribute to Everett Elstun, the literary lion of Raymondville.

He wondered how Dorothy had got Elstun to her party; he was a bit of a recluse and seldom mingled with the crowd. He was surprised as he saw him walking across the room, with an eager look upon his face.

"How are you coming with your writing?" he asked.

Bob gave a mirthless laugh. "I've just decided that as a writer I'm a pretty good hod-carrier. The fact of the matter is, Mr. Elstun, I've made a New Year's resolution to quit."

"Giving up in a hurry?" Elstun said, a trifle sharply.

"I've been trying for almost two years," Bob answered.

"And you think a few hours every now and then for two years should have brought you success? Listen, boy, I was writing full time for more than three years before I got a hint that I wasn't wasting ink."

In a moment Bob was confessing his real reason for quitting. Elstun listened quietly, then he spoke. "I, too, had that problem," he said. "There was a girl; I felt sure she wouldn't be satisfied with what I had to offer. Fortunately, I found out in time she wanted to share my struggles. Maybe the girl you love feels the same way."

Bob found that Elstun was right. Dorothy was against at the thought of his giving up the work he loved, or doubting that she would want to share his poverty. "It will be glorious to help you work out your career," she assured him.

So a new resolution was made that called for success instead of failure. The New Year was going to bring Bob the acceptances that he craved.

Pretty Good World

Scientists studying evolution predict that mankind will become perfectly adapted to its environment in about 5,000,000 years. If it is going to take as long at that, we can afford to take a little time to the holiday spirit and say blithely that this is a pretty good world—that for one so young it has done a good deal and has never behaved itself better than right now.—Woman's Home Companion.

AN INDIVIDUAL GIFT

You can make Christmas cookies, fruit cakes, assorted candies and boxes of stuffed dates, jars of jams and jellies and pack them attractively in distinctive baskets and make the "hard-to-shop-for" friend or relative happy on Christmas Day. To those who can buy everything they really want, there is nothing like the personally made or supervised gift. Make each basket individual in its decoration, too.

CHRISTMAS COOKIES

German Christmas Cookies
2 cups honey
2 eggs
1 lemon
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sliced candied citron.
Sift the flour, soda, cloves, nutmeg, cinnamon, sugar and salt together. Then add the citron. Add the beaten eggs and lemon juice to the honey. Add the dry ingredients to the wet ingredients. The dough should be very stiff. Roll and cut into fancy shapes. Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 15 minutes. Store in a tightly covered box. The cookies improve upon standing. This recipe makes six dozen cookies.

Ice Box Almond Cookies

1/2 cup butter
1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
3 eggs
2 cups almonds, cut fine
6 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
Make in two loaves, let stand in ice-box over night. Slice very thin, and bake.

Oatmeal Cookies

1 1/2 cups brown sugar
1 cup shortening
3 cups rolled oats
2 eggs
1/2 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1 cup dates
1 teaspoon soda
2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt.
Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly together. Add eggs, well beaten, rolled oats, dates, salt, spices, dissolved in milk and flour. Mix and drop from spoon on greased baking tin. Bake in moderate oven from 10 to 12 minutes. Sufficient for 45 cookies.

Filled Cookies

Filling:—Mix 1 cup raisins, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water and 1 tablespoon flour. Roll until thick. While this is cooking, prepare the dough: 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup butter, 1 egg, 1/2 cup milk, 3/4 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Roll, cut, put filling between each two rounds. Bake.
Chocolate Coconut Kisses
Melt 2 squares chocolate, add 1 small can Borden's Eagle Brand condensed milk, and 1/2 pound shredded coconut. Hot oven at first, then bake very slowly for 20 minutes. Makes about 30 kisses.

Chinese Chews

1 cup sugar
1 cup chopped dates
1/2 cup nut meats
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Mix with 2 beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Spread 1/2 inch thick. Bake.

Choice of Cheese Adds Novelty to Christmas Dinner

Novelty, color and a cheap form of food proteins can be added to Christmas dinners in Illinois homes this month by housewives who take advantage of the score or more of different kinds of cheese available on the market, suggests H. A. Ruehe, head of the dairy husbandry department at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Americans have never taken full opportunity to improve their diet by the use of cheese, averaging only about 4 1/2 pounds annually for each person in this country, points out Ruehe. In Switzerland the average individual yearly consumption of cheese is approximately 26 pounds, while in other European countries it will vary from 8 to 14 pounds.

Of the long list of cheeses which may be purchased during the holiday season, a few of the more common include:

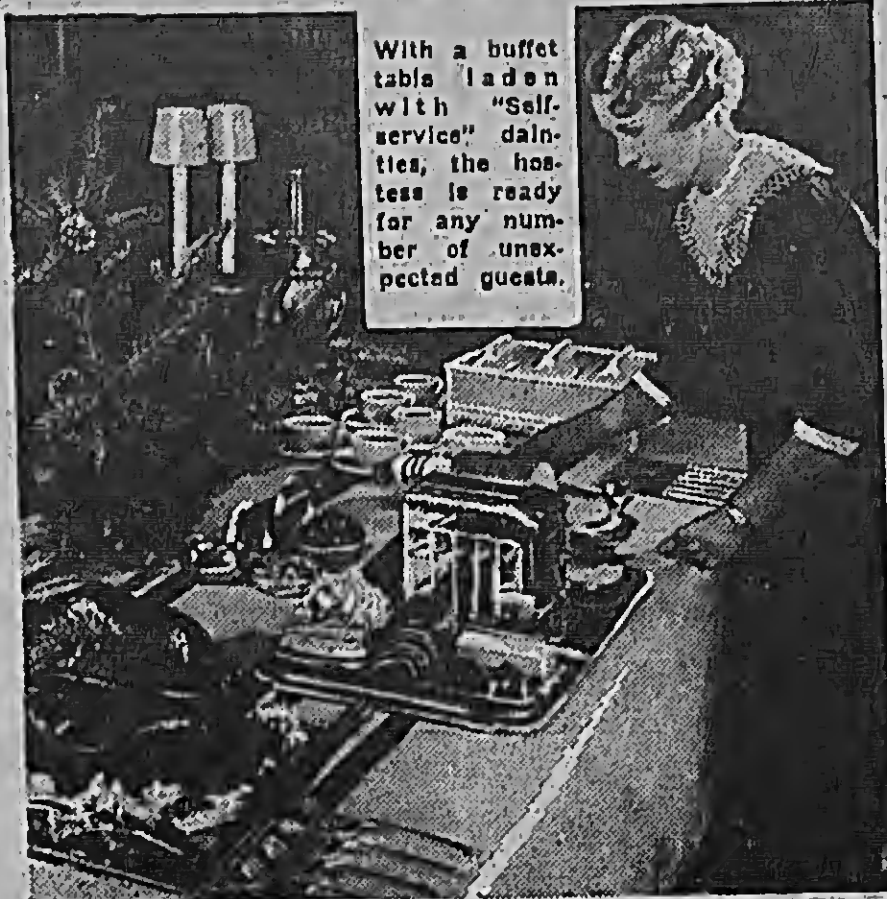

Cheddar, or American, which originated in Cheddar, England.
Swiss, or Emmenthal, originated in Switzerland but also made in this country.

Edam, a Holland cheese recognized by its spherical shape and red jacket.
Bergsma, a Swedish variety similar to Gouda cheese which is made both in Holland and in this country.
Pineapple cheese, originated in Connecticut.

Limberger, developed in Belgium but now made in the United States. The characteristic flavor is caused by bacterial fermentation of the product.

Brick cheese, an American product with a flavor midway between Lim-

Holiday "Drop-In" Guests No Problem to Modern Hostess

With a buffet table laden with "self-service" dainties, the hostess is ready for any number of unexpected guests.

UNEXPECTED guests who "just drop in" during Christmas week are no longer a menace to the nervous system of the hostess. By making a few simple plans in advance the modern hostess can handle the onslaught and appetites of practically any number of friends with no trouble or fuss.

The solution, of course, is the buffet table, from which guests help themselves as they please. By stocking the pantry in advance and skillfully utilizing tidbits left over from the Christmas dinner, the hostess can set out a jolly, delightful informal meal in no time.

The table illustrated above has for its pièce de résistance cold meat from the Christmas fowl—turkey, burger and Cheddar.

Roquefort, developed in France and originally made from sheep's milk. One plant in this country now makes this kind of cheese from cow's milk, using mechanical methods to produce the curing conditions found in the limestone caves of southern France.

Stilton, an English cheese with a piquant flavor caused by a green mold which develops in the cheese during curing.

Isigny, the result of an American attempt to reproduce the French Camembert. It is a few degrees warmer than Limberger in flavor.

In addition there are many kinds of processed cheese sold under various trade names. Most of them are made by grinding ripened cheese, adding a small amount of moisture and pasteurizing to produce a smooth plastic mass.

CADDY lighted the fire in the fireplace. She switched on the Christmas lights for the tree. She pulled down the shades, and pushed an easy chair towards the fire. Haley would be home any time now, cold and weary from his round of calls on sick people. This was their first Christmas eve together since they had been married.

Haley had started out on his rounds at noon. At three he had telephoned to say he was obliged to abandon his car. The snow was too deep. He had borrowed a pair of snowshoes and a fur cap, and with bag in hand, was about to walk a road leading through the woods to a small shack where a sick woman lay waiting his ministrations. At Caddy's worried inquiries, he said it would take him a couple of hours. Then he had a three-mile walk further on the main turnpike, to a child suffering with a quincy sore throat. After that, he would retrace his steps, get his car, and drive home.

Caddy gazed into the flames. The country practice covered miles and miles. Haley was conscientious. He never failed to reach his patients somehow, but he was tired and worn out. And Caddy herself was often lonely. Her plans for fun for little parties at home, usually ended in trying to get someone to fill Haley's place. She knew it would be like this. Haley had warned her. She was sensible and patient. Yet tonight... Christmas eve, and Haley's birthday. She sighed... she simply couldn't bear to have anything go wrong. The telephone rang. "That you, Caddy? I'm stuck again. The drifts are so deep I can't walk through. I'm out of the wood road all safe, and within two miles of that sick child. But none of the farmers near here has a team of horses. I really need oxen to pull me through. It's tough going."

"Oh," breathed Caddy, trying not to sound dismayed.

"Caddy, I wonder," he hesitated. She could tell he was tired by the drag in his voice. "If you could possibly get Lem Slater's team of oxen and drive here for me! I simply can't ask him to do it himself. He has his daughter home for the holidays and her family. It's Christmas."

Caddy could not speak. She knew what this meant. Hours of being out in the storm. Heaven alone knew when they would get home. She glanced at the friendly, loving room.

"Won't you, darling... to help me out?"

Then she remembered something her father had said to her on her wedding day:

"You will never be allowed to forget you are the wife of a country doctor. But I think he's worth it... if you are!"

So now over the telephone she said, "All right. Stay where you are. Get warm and rested, and I'll be there by Shanghai Express!"

The tedious drive behind the oxen seemed endless. The snow lifted down inside her collar. It blinded her. She was not actually suffering, but she was pretty uncomfortable. On... and on... and on. The whirling curtains swept before her. The snow drifted across the broad backs of the patient beasts. They took their own way in their own plodding time. Caddy sat on a box wrapped round with a bear rug.

On and on... and on. Creak... creak... the swaying of the benches was like some grotesque, nightmarish rhythm. She almost fell asleep.

Then out of the whiteness ahead she heard a shout. "Hey... bless your heart, darling!" And Haley jumped aboard.

The child was very sick. The throat had to be leached. Caddy forgot her injured feelings. She helped capably. The mother, worn and harassed, thanked them both with tears in her eyes. And together they drank coffee beside a humble kitchen stove, and ate huge slices of thick, buttered bread. Not what Caddy had planned for Christmas eve, yet, curiously enough, it seemed better than the other. It had... she tried to think it out—more strength and snow to it.

She smiled at Haley. "This is positively the best Christmas eve I ever spent in my life!" she whispered. Behind a large buttered slice of bread he kissed her. "You are the perfect pattern for a country doctor's wife!" he whispered back.
